Abstract: This paper is a review of the literature on the effects of the 1997 Asian financial crisis on the economies of the Asian countries. The paper discusses the impact of the crisis on the economies of the Asian countries, the role of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) in the crisis, and the impact of the crisis on the economies of the Asian countries. The paper also discusses the impact of the crisis on the economies of the Asian countries, the role of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) in the crisis, and the impact of the crisis on the economies of the Asian countries.

Noting also that the Panel's findings are based on the evidence presented to it, the Panel concludes that the evidence presented to it is sufficient to establish that the Panel's findings are based on the evidence presented to it.
